sues county as result of flood damage

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

City officials received a round of applause during a Monday night meeting when they announced a lawsuit against Wayne County for allegedly releasing airport flood water into city drainage and sewage systems Feb. 22.

The lawsuit includes three counts against the county—nuisance, trespassing and breach of contract. Special attorney Michael Filer said the city will ask for damages for extensive flooding and property damage reported within the community.

The suit will also call for injunctive relief to prevent future damage.

Most of the residents present at the Monday night meeting had filled council chambers Feb. 26 describing gushing water and sewage, flooded basements and destroyed property. Most of these people placed the blame on county officials, who reportedly opened several floodgates at Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport into the city drainage system Feb. 22.

That day had seen a steady downpour of rain, approximately two inches. Combined with melted snow, the weather conditions threatened a flash flood at the airport, county officials said. They said opening floodgates prevented a possibly dangerous situation.

However, resident complaints suggested flood waters were released into the city sewage system. Numerous people claimed human waste backed into their basements.

After hearing their complaints last week, city officials agreed to investigate. With evidence gathered from residents and an engineering firm, city officials said Monday they feel prepared to take official action against the county.

"We have a reasonable basis to believe our suit is justified," Filer said.

In addition, city council authorized Mayor Beverly McAnally to send a letter to residents in the neighborhoods hit hardest by flooding—Oakbrook and Applewood. The letter would announce the lawsuit and ask for written details about flooding and damage.

Already available through the mayor's office is a questionnaire asking residents for times, water levels, water colors and odors and other details.

Residents who experienced flooding have been urged to record this information as soon as possible while their memories of the incident are sharp.

Meanwhile, investigation into the situation has begun at the county level. The chairman of the Wayne County Commission formed a subcommittee to investigate charges that water released from the airport caused the flooding in Romulus and other nearby communities.

"As overseers of the airport, it is important that we have dispassionate knowledge of what actually happened in the flooding incident," said chairman Arthur Blackwell II. "We need facts before making any judgment."

McAnally pointed out the city will also continue investigating the flood and providing updates for the community.

"Based on the information we accumulate, you can make your own claim," she said.

Several residents at the meeting said they are considering initiating a class-action suit against the county.

Block grant hearing is scheduled

By FLORENCE MEEKS

Community organizations and agencies can present their appeals for Community Development Block Grants March 12 during a public hearing before city council.

Approximately $85,000 will be available in grant money this year, down from $90,000 in 1989.

Jeffery Martell, community development coordinator, said the federal funding reduction is the result of several factors—a 1 1/2 percent cut in domestic spending, a 1 1/2 percent cut from the grant program for the national war on drugs and an overall increase in cities eligible for the program.

Community Development Block Grants are allocated to organizations or city departments that can make a specific contribution. Funding must benefit at least 39.9 percent of a targeted area.

Romulus has between 10 and 15 targeted areas, based on a census track. Each area contains five block groups.

This program is funded through the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development. It originated in 1967 under the administration of Lyndon Johnson.

As a member of the Wayne County Block Grant Consortium, Romulus receives funds funneled through the county.

Past recipients of the grant money include the Romulus Historical Society, several Romulus Help Center programs, the recreation department and a local senior citizen housing center.

During a recent city council meeting, Martell reviewed program guidelines with city officials. Block grants must go to areas where more than 42.9 percent of the population has a low to moderate income, he said.

After the initial public hearing, another meeting will be staged March 26 during which councilmembers will announce their choices for grant money and amounts to be allocated.

Final approval from the federal government is usually announced in June. Funding is distributed in August or September.

For more information about Community Development Block Grants, call the Romulus Community Development office at 942-7545.

Icy road conditions Monday afternoon led to a fatal car accident for a 18-year-old Westland woman. The woman was trapped in her crushed pickup truck nearly 40 minutes before rescue workers were able to free her. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Woman killed in truck wreck

An 18-year-old Westland woman was killed Monday afternoon when her pickup truck slid across icy roads into the path of a semi tractor trailer.

Carolyn Chapman was exiting southbound Interstate 275 to the distributor lane of eastbound Interstate 94 when her truck began to slide on the slippery road.

The truck spun in front of a semi truck in the center lane, Romulus police officials said. The semi slammed into the driver's side of the truck.

After the crash, Chapman was trapped in her vehicle. Police and rescue workers spent 35 to 40 minutes attempting to free her from the wreck.

On the ambulance ride to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, Chapman's heart stopped beating. Rescue workers began cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Continued efforts by the hospital staff to revive Chapman were unsuccessful. Hospital officials said Chapman bled to death.

Although he was shaken up, the semi truck driver was not injured, police said.

City resolution demands solution for obnoxious odor

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Raising a big stink about holding ponds on airport property, Romulus city councilmembers Monday night approved a resolution protesting odors coming from the area.

The resolution was drafted by city attorney Barry Seifman after a request from Councilmember Fred "Junior" Block.

Last month, Block described the odor problem to councilmembers, claiming it is most noticeable along Middlebelt Road at Eureka and Northline roads. The odor comes from several holding ponds on nearby airport property, he said. In the ponds is Ethylene Glycol, a chemical used to remove ice from aircraft wings. As the substance stagnates, it begins to smell.

Residents have been complaining about the problem since 1976. During warm weather, the sweet stench of the water becomes unbearable, Block said.

"The retention ponds upon the Detroit Metropolitan Airport are maintained in such a manner that it emits obnoxious odors creating a detrimental health hazard to all who come in contact with its emissions; it creates a condition severely affecting the quality of life of residents of Romulus and their guests," the resolution states.

The resolution directs state and county officials to work to alleviate the problem.

Among those addressed are the governor, state ombudsman, several state lawmakers, the state department of natural resources and county officials.

Michael Conway, airport communications director, said the county is already acting on the matter.

"We've invested a lot of money and a lot of time into the problem," he said.

Approximately two years ago the county installed an aeration system for the ponds, according to Cathy Morse, environmental operations manager for the airport. The system was designed to introduce oxygen to the ponds. The oxygen speeds the growth of bacteria, which in turn breaks down the glycol in the pond. The process reduces the pond odor, Morse said.

The system is left on during the winter months to prevent an ice cap from forming on the water. Ice would prevent oxygen from entering the water, creating an even worse odor.

Another step to relieve the problem is the release of pond water into the sanitary sewer system. This program began last spring, Morse said. The portion of pond water released approximately 3 million gallons a day, is carried to a treatment plant in Wyandotte.

Currently, Morse said, the holding ponds are empty. Water was released during the weekend through a discharge gate into a county drain system, she explained. Thus, the source of the odor has been removed for now.

Dispatchers are trained on computer

Dispatchers at the Romulus Police Department recently completed a week of training on a new computer system designed to protect officers on the road.

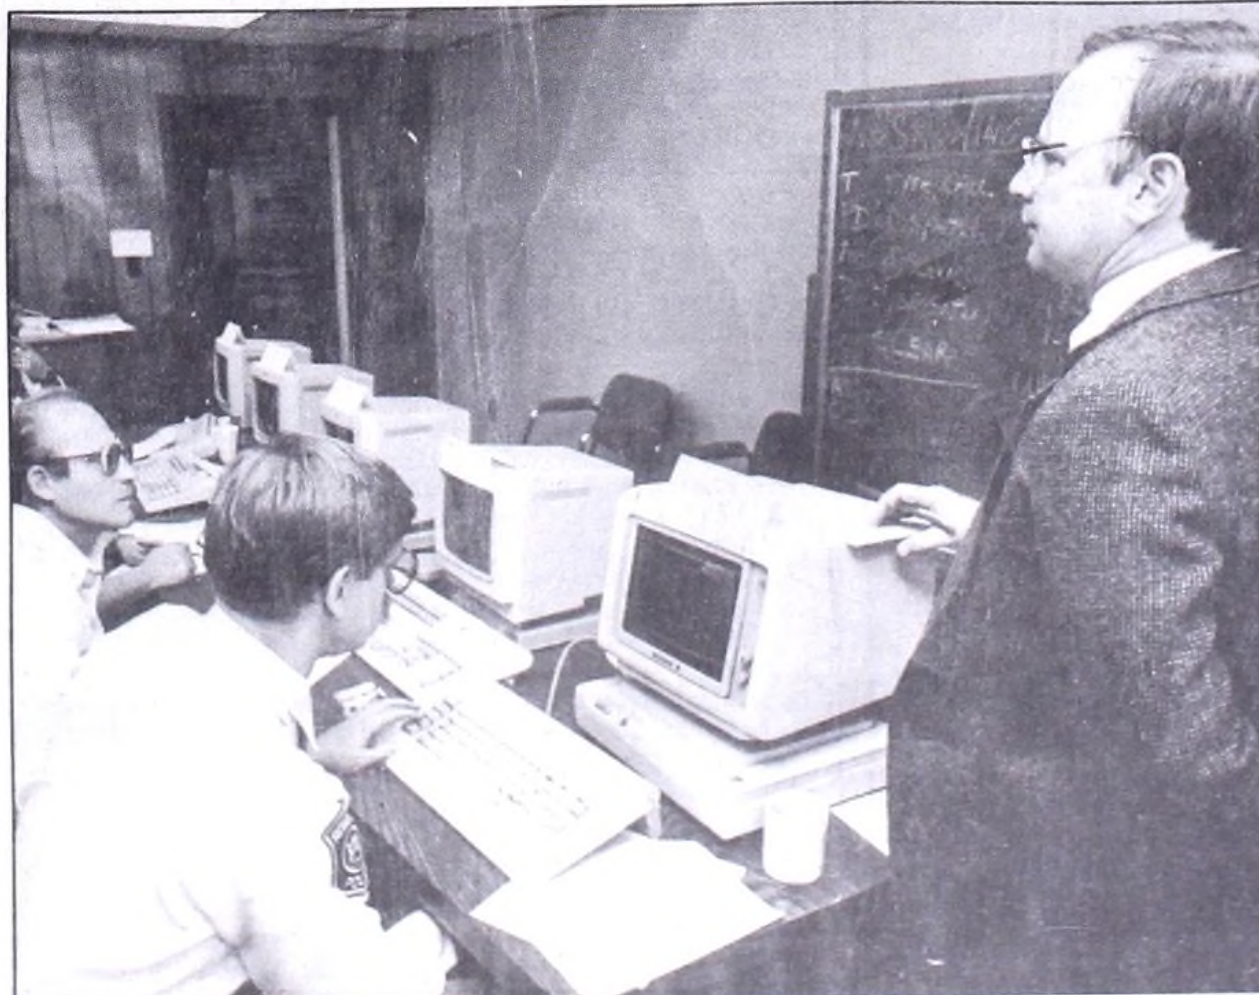

When an officer is assigned a call, the new computer data system keeps track of general locations, addresses and what kind of hazards the officer might face.

Also recorded are "call-ins" by the officer. If the officer does not contact the station by radio or telephone after a certain amount of time, the computer "tones" or alerts the dispatcher.

"It's one of the latest things," said Police Chief Fred Dansby.

Undergoing training on the new system are station dispatchers, cadets and all uniformed sergeants.

Transition into the new computer system is expected to take a month with it fully in use by the first week of April.

Political war to be waged

By JOHN AGGE
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County commissioners, anxious to end speculation of Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara leaving office in midterm and handing the position to Deputy Executive Michael Duggan, are working to propose amendments in the county charter to block such a move.

Local commissioners Milton Mack and Kay Beard are both involved with county charter amendments.

Beard has joined with Commission Chairman Arthur Blackwell and Commissioner Bernard Kilpatrick to propose an amendment of the county charter allowing the commission to appoint a temporary executive should a vacancy in the office occur.

Under the current charter, the deputy executive assumes the responsibilities of the executive should the post become vacant. McNamara is rumored to have his sights set on the 1994 race for governor. It is also rumored that he would quit the executive post midterm to start his campaign, leaving Duggan as the incumbent for the next county executive election.

"The deputy executive is not an elective post," Beard said. "That is not a democratic way of doing things," should a non-elected official succeed an elected one, Beard said.

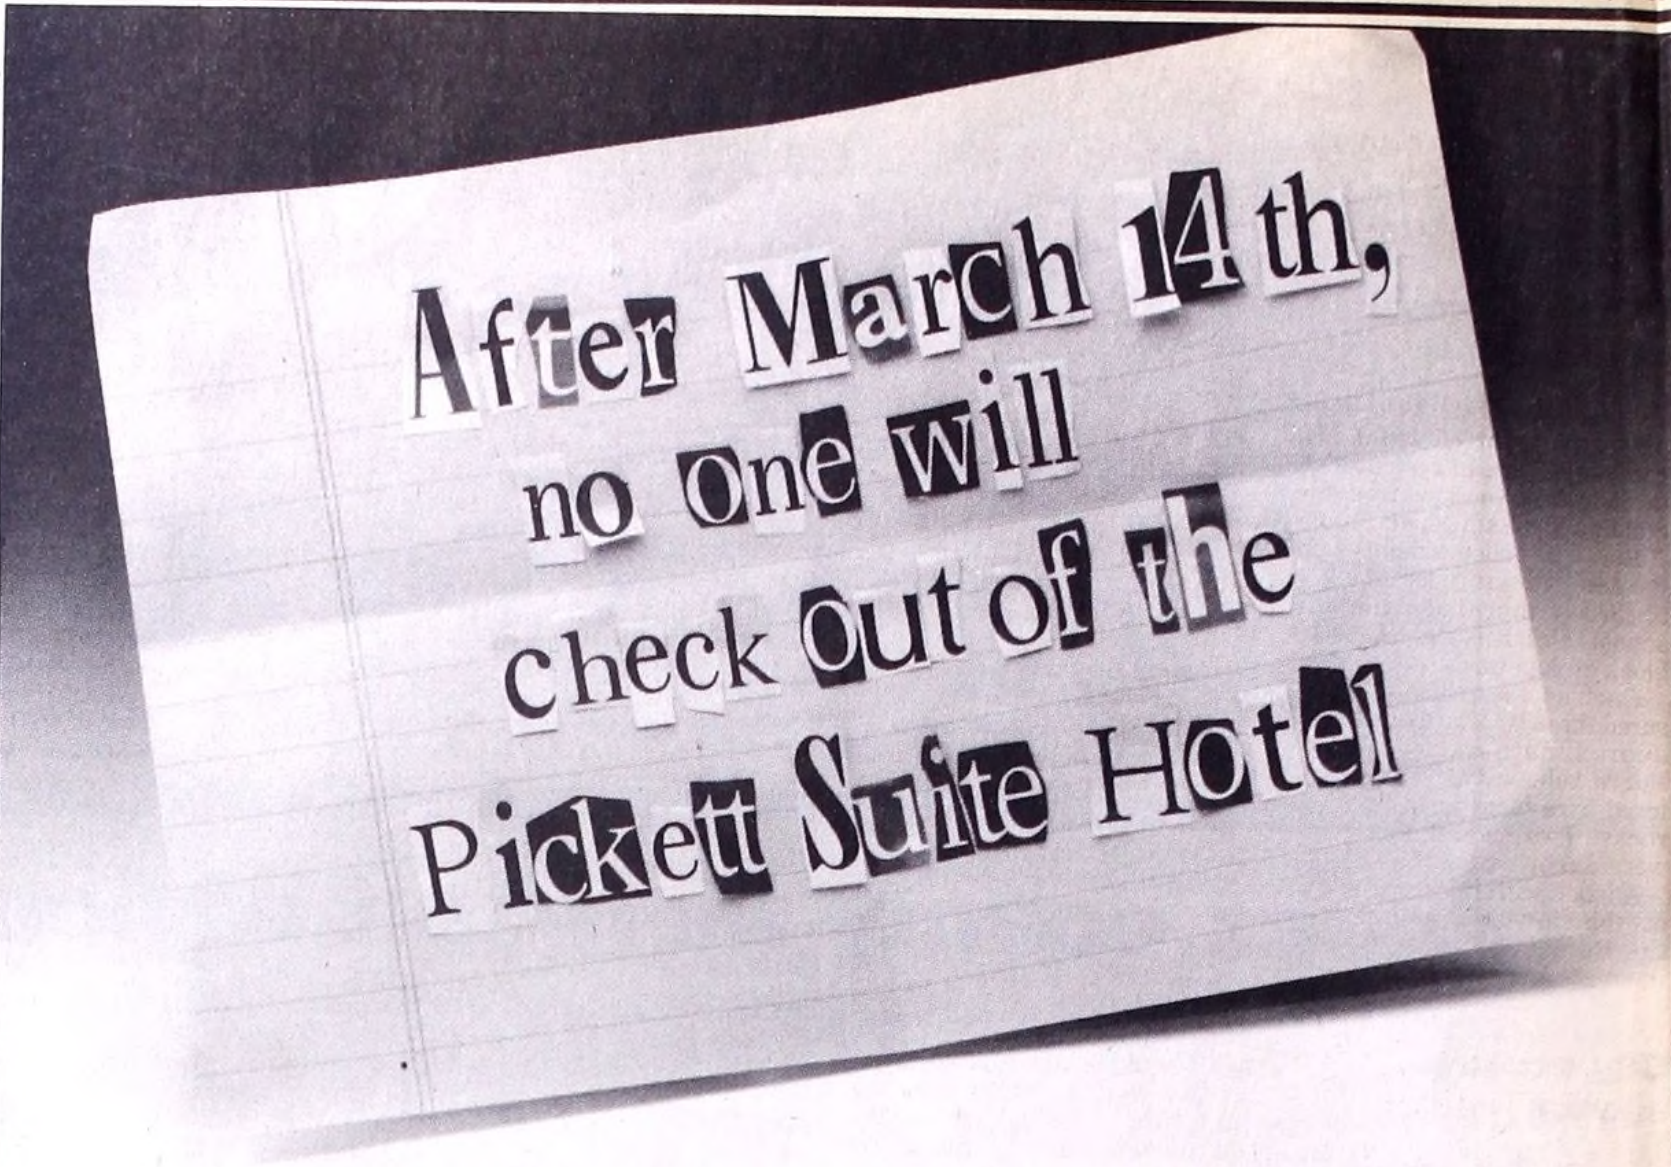

Under the proposal, if the vacancy of the county executive is longer than one year, a special election would be staged within 90 days of the temporary appointment to elect a new executive.

"The proposed amendment is subject to change," Beard said. "We will have public hearings to determine what the voters want done in this regard."

Mack has stated he will propose an amendment to the charter to make the position of the deputy executive an elected one, much like the lieutenant governor position.

"There is no question in my mind that Ed McNamara will run and be elected as county executive," Mack said. "The basic question of how the deputy executive is selected needs to be addressed, now that it has been brought up, to end all of this speculation."

By electing the deputy executive along with the county executive, Mack said, the issue of who takes over in a vacancy can be put to rest.

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Windows smashed at school

Approximately $1,800 in damage was reported from Mt. Pleasant Elementary School after nine large windows from the building were smashed.

Romulus police officials said the damage was reported early Saturday morning from the school, which is on the 39000 block of Superior.

Each of the windows measured three by four feet with an approximate value of $200. Police believe they were shattered by a blunt instrument or rocks. Two sets of footprints were discovered at the site.

Anyone with information about this case is urged to contact the Romulus Police Department at 941-8400.

City declares special weeks

A resolution approved by Romulus City Council Monday night declares April 1 through 7 Census Week.

In addition, April 7 through 14 will be known as National Community Development Week, and will be set aside to recognize city participation in the Community Development Block Grant program for the past 16 years.

Both resolutions of support were presented by Jeffery Martell, community development coordinator.

Police officer receives thanks

The president of Co-Op Services Credit Union, recently the site of an armed robbery, sent a letter of thanks to Romulus police officer Rick Schwartz.

Last month, a man armed with a gun took approximately $8,000 from the Romulus credit union.

"Thanks to the good work of Officer Rick Schwartz who investigated the robbery, the robber was apprehended later the same day and the monies were recovered," wrote Robert Huston, credit union president.

A recent court ruling remanded the defendant in this case to prison until all court proceedings are complete.

Area church reports theft

A color television, tape recorder and video cassette recorder were recently taken from the Northline Baptist Church in Taylor.

The Rev. Greg Stokes said the equipment was probably taken during a men's choir rehearsal. Witnesses claim an unknown man entered the building, hung up his coat and said hello to a young child in the building.

"He just made himself at home," Stokes said.

Later that evening, the man and the equipment were gone.

This is the third time the church has been targeted for robbery. Sound equipment was stolen from the building two years ago. Almost immediately after the equipment was replaced, it was taken again, Stokes said.

"It used to be churches could leave their doors open," he said.

Most of the recently stolen equipment has been replaced through fundraisers and insurance money. The church has stepped up security measures, Stokes said.

State leader is featured

A representative from the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce will speak March 12 at a legislative forum sponsored by the Southern Wayne County Chamber of Commerce.

He will speak of "Business Prospective on 1990 Legislation" at the event. Between 100 and 200 people are expected to attend at 7:30 a.m. at the Ramada Heritage Center in Southgate.

Raided massage parlors reopen

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Two weeks after a police raid resulted in the shutdown of two area massage parlors, a court order reopened the parlor doors.

Padlocks were removed Feb. 23 from the doors of The Rest Stop, 6971 Merriman Road in Romulus. On Feb. 27, the Far East Sauna, 27336 Michigan Avenue, reopened.

The businesses were closed Feb. 16 after an undercover investigation by the Romulus Police Department indicated the parlors were the alleged site of prostitution, according to police reports.

The decision to temporarily reopen the parlors came during a Circuit Court hearing before Judge Michael Talbot.

Attorneys representing the business owners presented case law citing the right to operate a legitimate business.

Talbot ruled in favor of the reopening with a list of guidelines for the owners. A final decision about the future of the parlors will be made during a yet unscheduled civil trial before Talbot.

Meanwhile, if the parlor staff members do not comply with any of the new guidelines, the parlors are likely to be closed again, Romulus police officials said.

- Masseuses at the parlors must be fully clothed at all times.
- Customers are not to touch the masseuses.
- Local massage parlor ordinances must be posted.

- The price of a massage must be posted.
- No furniture can be moved around or removed from the businesses.
- Romulus police officials said the Romulus parlor was complying with the guidelines during a recent check-up visit.

Police officials began their investigation of The Rest Stop during the summer after several residents issued complaints to the department and the mayor's office. Residents claimed the parlor advertised in known pornographic magazines, and was the scene of illegal activities.

Eventually, undercover officers were placed in the business. These officers confirmed reports of prostitution

Closed school leads to search for voting site

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A decision made one year ago to close Hayti Elementary School is a dilemma today for City Clerk Linda Choate.

Hayti, located at Beverly Road west of Middlebelt, had been the site of two voting precincts, 9 and 15. Officials of Romulus Community Schools closed the building in June because of financial problems and declining student enrollments.

Although the city was allowed to use the building for the November elections, Hayti is now shut down and cleared out - power has been permanently turned off and all furniture has been removed.

With a June election approaching, Choate must now find a new home for the precincts.

Already she has considered and rejected the idea of using other Romulus schools for the precincts. State law allows the use of one building for up to six precincts - all of the local schools house at least two. There simply is not enough room for an addition, Choate said.

What takes up room, she explained, are the large voting machines used by the city. Five are used per precinct. Parking and storage space are also factors to be considered, Choate said.

Another rejected idea was Gordiner Elementary School. The building was closed approximately eight years ago, but it is being leased. It, however, is not available for city use.

"I can't find a place to go," Choate said.

Now, Choate is considering use of a private building.

"Maybe someone in that area has a building they will loan to us. We're only in there a maximum of three days a year."

Elections are usually staged in June, September and November. Workers are in the precinct buildings from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., Choate said.

Because state law requires voting areas be accessible to the disabled, a first-floor site would be ideal, she added.

Wherever the precincts are moved, a decision must be made quickly. Once a new voting area is found, the clerk's office is required by law to notify each registered voter from the precinct in writing.

"I need something now," Choate said.

The "homeless" precincts are bounded by Inkster, Van Born and Ecorse roads. On the west is an imaginary line running north from the junction of Ecorse Road and Henry Ruff. The voting building does not have to be within the boundaries, but it can only serve people from that area.

Anyone with building suggestions is urged to call the city clerk's office at 942-7540.

Southgate man charged in robbery

A 40-year-old Southgate man has been charged with the Feb. 13 armed robbery of a Romulus gas station.

Stephen Clinton was arraigned Sunday in out-county court before Judge Leo Foran of the 20th District Court. The defendant was charged with robbery and armed robbery with bond set at $50,000 cash.

Clinton will remain in Wayne County jail until his March 14 preliminary examination in the 34th District Court.

Romulus police officials said Clinton has also been charged in several Southgate robberies.

When he learned Romulus police were searching for him, Clinton turned himself in.

The Feb. 13 Romulus robbery was reported from a service station at the 9000 block of Wayne Road.

Art show contestants to increase

For the first time, local artists have been invited to participate in the annual juried fine art competition hosted by Southland Center, Taylor.

Previously open only to artists from Romulus and the 16 other Downriver Community Conference communities, invitations to participate in the exhibit, April 22 through April 28, have been extended to artists from Van Buren Township, Belleville, Sumpter Township and Huron Township.

The event, Art Ambience, is sponsored by the Downriver Council for the Arts, Downriver Arts and Crafts Guild, Downriver Branch of Wayne County Community College and the Southern Wayne County Chamber of Commerce. Original artwork will be accepted in the following categories: oil painting, water media, drawing, fibers and jewelry, miscellaneous painting and collage, original prints, three dimensional and photography.

Judging the event will be Edee Joppich, owner and director of Joppich's Bay Street Gallery, Northport, Mich. She is a former instructor at the Bentley Galleries, 9475 Morton Taylor Road, Belleville, where entry forms for the show are available through March 16.

Christine Bentley, owner of the local gallery, and her daughter, Brenda Laginess, said they are pleased local artists will have an opportunity to participate in the juried show, and they are encouraging participation by Belleville area artists.

Star for a day

Mary Ann Banks had a taste of stardom Friday night during an awards banquet in her honor at the Hilton Inn. Members of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce selected Banks as the 1990 Romulus Person of the Year. The award is based on nominations from the community. During the selection process, members of the person of the year committee narrow nominations to three. With names omitted, these nominees are presented to the chamber board of directors for final selection. During the ceremony Friday, Banks shared a dance with her brother, Phil Renke (above). Chamber President Bill Crane (left) and board member Mark Lewkowicz offered Banks congratulations. ANP photos by Werner Slom/staff photographer

"Every artist needs the experience of participating in a juried show," Laginess said. "It is a good opportunity to have one's work seen and presents an opportunity for artists to learn how to present themselves at a show. The exhibit also forces artists to look objectively at their own works and the works of others to observe trends."

Laginess said the show also is a learning experience which provides artists with an opportunity to learn special art techniques from one another.

"Artists willingly share their knowledge with each other," Laginess said. "For example, if you admire the work of another artist and ask how he or she attained a certain, difficult look, in most instances, the artist will enthusiastically share the information about it with you."

Arts program is eyed by county officials

By DIANNE THOMAS
ANP News Editor

The term "starving artist" may never be heard again in Wayne County.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners last month approved a plan to implement an ongoing Artist in Residency Program. Sherry Washington has been named to administer the program.

According to a report from the committee on health and human services, the program is being established to "assist in the development of professional artists in Wayne County by providing them with monetary awards and studio space to allow for their continued growth and development."

Similar programs already exist in Macomb, Oakland, and Washtenaw counties, according to Washington.

Plans for the Wayne County program include four exhibitions of art each year at the Wayne County Building in Detroit.

A fund in the amount of $34,000 has been established to launch the program.

SCHOOL NEWS

Kellie Massey of Cory Elementary School may be on her way to winning a $25,000 scholarship thanks to her knowledge of geography. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Scholarship possible for geography bee winner

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A fifth-grader's knowledge of geography may earn her a $25,000 college scholarship. Kellie Massey last month won the Cory Elementary School geography bee, making her eligible for a national competition sponsored by National Geographic WORLD a magazine for children. Massey said Peter Silveri, Cory principal, selected students earning high grades in social studies for the competition. She and the other contestants were supplied with two thick packets "crammed" with possible bee questions. Students were given a week for each one, Massey explained. "I studied with my parents," she said.

To memorize answers, Massey used word association. To remember South Africa, for example, she used the word apartheid from the oral question. The hard work paid off for Massey.

"I was happy," she said, describing her reaction to winning.

The next step for Massey and other school winners was a written test with 60 questions. As many as 100 students nationwide took the test.

Career, job fair is set

Between 1 and 5 p.m. today, a career and job fair will be conducted at the Western Campus of Wayne County Community College, 9555 Haggerty Road, north of Interstate 94, Belleville.

The event, Opportunities Galore '90, features 45 employers who will conduct interviews and provide applications to career fair visitors.

High school and college students, as well as the general public, are invited to attend, according to event sponsors.

wide who took the test will be eligible to compete in the their state bees March 30.

The National Geographic Society and co-sponsors will provide an all-expenses-paid trip to Washington D.C. for the state champions and their teacher escorts to participate in the final competition May 23 and 24.

The first-place national winner will receive a $25,000 college scholarship; the second-place winner, a $15,000 college scholarship and the third-place winner, a $10,000 scholarship. Alex Trebeck, host of Jeopardy!, will moderate the national finals.

Representatives from the National Geographic Society said the national geography bee was developed because of a growing concern about the lack of knowledge young people have about geography in the United States. A 10-country Gallup survey conducted for the society in 1988 and 1989 found people in the U.S. ages 18 to 24 knew less about geography than young people in any of the other countries.

Regardless of how far Massey goes in this competition, she has already proven herself to her family. She said her parents have been behind her from the beginning. "They were very proud of me," she said.

Runner-up to Massey in the Cory competition was Sara Hudson. Other school finalists were Adrienne Anderson, Nicole Cyburt, Christopher Jones, Amy Ledger, Tara Minda, Brett Pennington and Kionta Turrentine.

Local furniture store is all-American

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

When Allan Goode began to feature American-made products in his furniture stores, he hoped U.S. products would be well-received. However, he didn't know to what extent "patriotism pays" until he checked his earnings for the past year.

Goode attributes his 23 percent sales increase in 1989 to pro-American merchandising, and he expects a 15 to 30 percent increase again in 1990. This increase will put his earnings at the million dollar mark for the first time since he opened his first store 12 years ago, Goode said.

Allan and his wife, Cheryl, operate Willows Furniture stores in Lakewood Center, Belleville, and Wonderland Mall, Livonia, and plan to open a third store in Ann Arbor this summer.

Goode said the change from an import-based shop into an almost exclusively American-made store came about two years ago, and resulted in a name change for the business from Willow Imports to Willows.

"I began a shift to country furniture at that time, and I found the best products at the best prices came from the U.S. — mostly from the state of North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia," Goode said. "Customers derive satisfaction from the knowledge that they are buying handsome, quality furniture created by fellow Americans. With the market so saturated with foreign goods, it is difficult to find made-in-America goods."

Goode said there has been a misconception that foreign goods are a better value — an idea that has been proved to be erroneous by American manufacturers.

"Americans have started to compete better in the world market, especially with furniture. Today, American products are as good in quality — or better — and as inexpensive as foreign goods," the store owner said. "It feels good that customers are responding so well to the American-made furnishings that we are featuring here."

"We're also offering Amish oak furniture," Cheryl Goode said. "The popularity of the Amish craftsmanship has prompted us to consider expanding our stock of the unique furniture."

Goode also sees a trend, not only in a return to the country-style furnishings, but to "a timeless style. It is a complete turnaround from the purchasing of inexpensive "disposables" of a decade ago, said Goode.

"We are selling the antiques of tomorrow, today," Good said. "Curio cabinets, benches, hutches, dining room and bedroom sets and armoires, which have a warm, inviting look and timeless style."

Seventeen years ago, the Goodes opened a plant store in Ann Arbor, and five years later moved to Ypsilanti. In 1980, they opened a store at Wonderland Mall, and 10 years ago opened their Belleville area location at the Lakewood Center, at I-94 and Rawsonville Road. They also operate a greenhouse in Salem Township, which provides greenery for sale in their shops as well as being a retail outlet.

Volunteers
help to preserve
chambers

Representatives from the Wayne, Canton Township and Belleville area chambers of commerce were among the participants of a Feb. 23 Ambassador Seminar hosted by the Livonia Chamber of Commerce.

The Ambassadors are a group of volunteers from each chamber of commerce whose primary function is to contact and retain members. They serve as liaisons between the individual members and the chambers, extending personal invitations to businesspeople to attend meetings and special events.

Through the volunteers, local chambers of commerce are asking business people, "What can we do for you?" and "What do you expect from your chamber of commerce?" The feedback from those and other questions helps the individual chambers to create more effective programs, appeal to the specific needs of the business community and, at the same time, retain and increase membership in the business organization.

The seminar involved tips on recruitment, training and orientation of Ambassadors, and ideas for increasing the effectiveness of the volunteers in their personal calls and duties.

Linda Hall, president of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce, was introduced to the Ambassadors as a member of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

"We've adapted some of the procedures that other chambers have used to suit our needs here," Hall said. "For example, we've found that the reason many new members of the business community have been reluctant to attend functions is because they are not acquainted with other business people in the area. Our Ambassadors are each assigned a 'flock to shepherd,' and through their personal contact with the members of their group, the newcomers are assured that there will always be someone they know at various chamber functions — their Ambassador."

Hall said the Belleville Ambassadors first duties were to distribute calendars to members and conduct a needs survey. They have also represented the chamber at the openings of new businesses and other community activities, Hall said.

Other area representatives were Christine Bentley, Joyce Rochowiak, Janet Millard and Joan Dyer-Zinner, Belleville; Donna McEachern and Bill Garrett, Wayne, and Joan Bolak and Phyllis Wordhouse, Canton Township.

Census program begins

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara officially marked the start of a U.S. Census awareness campaign.

The campaign will be the job of members of the 1990 Census Complete Count Committee for the county. The goal of members is to focus attention on the importance of the census, and to prepare residents to complete and return the census form which is scheduled to be delivered March 23.

The committee members were appointed by McNamara.

Utility savings is announced

A savings of more than $1 million last year was realized by the county as a result of the decision to purchase natural gas through a brokerage contract rather than through existing utility rate schedules, according to county Executive Edward McNamara.

In an effort to cut some utility costs, Wayne County officials entered into a five-year gas purchase and transportation contract with MichCon Trading, a subsidiary of Michigan Consolidated Gas Company. The county uses the same pipeline for gas transportation as Consolidated, but receives a reduced gas field purchase rate through MichCon Trading.

Commissioner is honored

Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack has been named the Outstanding Elected Official of the Year by the Detroit Metropolitan Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration.

Mack was honored for his early leadership addressing the solid waste crisis which is expected to be the leading environmental issue of the 1990s. He was credited with making recycling a major component of the new Wayne County Solid Waste Plan.

He was also noted for his history of leadership in promoting county reform, including spearheading the movement to eliminate the formerly powerful office of Wayne County drain commissioner.

Mack was first elected to the Wayne County Commission in 1982, and currently serves as chairman of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, chairman of the Wayne County Solid Waste Implementation Committee, and is a member of the board of directors for the National Association of Regional Councils.

State programs star on television

Cable television viewers may learn about the free vocational rehabilitation program offered by the state by watching two programs to air the week of March 12 and 26.

The week of March 26, viewers may learn about the State Technical Institute and Rehabilitation Center. The 32-acre vocational school, operated by MRS, provides training in 17 different programs for students with disabilities.

The programs can be seen at the following times: In Inkster, at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday on channel 3; in Wayne, at 6 p.m. Monday, 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, 3:30 p.m. Thursday and 5:30 p.m. Friday on channel 17; in Westland, at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday on channel 11; in Romulus, 7 p.m. Tuesday on channel 40.

Glasnost looks good to legislator

By DIANNE THOMAS
ANP News Editor

State Rep. James A. Kosteva (D-Canton Township) had a firsthand look at glasnost last month.

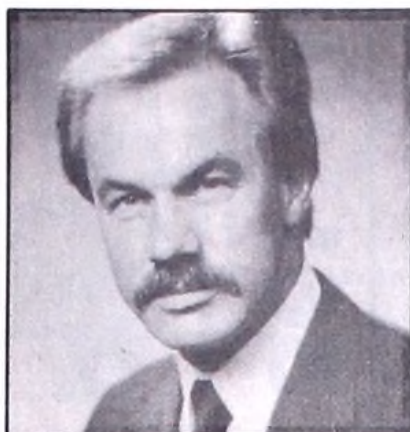

Kosteva was part of a group from the American Council of Young Political Leaders that spent two weeks in the Soviet Union, meeting its politicians and its people.

The bi-partisan council works under the auspices of the United States Information Agency, and has arranged several such tours in addition to exchange visits.

"They basically try to facilitate better understanding of other countries, their history, and the people themselves," Kosteva said.

Kosteva's Soviet experience actually began last December, when he traveled to Wisconsin to meet with Russian visitors. The Russians and the Americans met, Kosteva said, "to explore the political and economic realities of our respective nations."

Following three days of seminars in Wisconsin, the group moved on to Lansing where Kosteva showed them

James Kosteva

"how the public influences policy."

"They walked in my shoes and experienced the flavor of American politics," he said.

Kosteva met several of the same Russian delegates again when he visited the Soviet Union.

The American delegation made its first stop in Moscow, then journeyed to the historic cities of Vladimir and Suzdal. They finished with a trip to Minsk, a factory area and sister city to Detroit.

Kosteva found Moscow to be similar to a poor neighborhood in an American urban area, he said.

"It is high-rise after high-rise of drab concrete buildings with no architectural flavor," he said.

Alongside the concrete monoliths, however, were the architectural wonders of the 15th through 18th century with their dramatic golden domes, Kosteva said.

Kosteva found the people who occupy those concrete buildings to be warm and friendly, and curious about America.

"I was impressed with the people themselves and their education," he said. "They're very interested in American historical events."

Many of Kosteva's meetings in Moscow were of an official nature, and included the chief advisors to the central committee. There were also educational leaders and representatives of the Supreme Soviet in attendance.

The official discussions centered on political and economic issues.

Kosteva said he found their next stops, in Vladimir and Suzdal, much like a stop to Williamsburg or Greenfield Village. There the Soviet citizens and officials have preserved cathedrals and buildings from the days of the czars, and have also relocated other buildings of historic note.

In Minsk, Kosteva said he found a great deal of concern for the environment.

The city is in the province where the Chernobyl nuclear disaster took place, and the citizens are aware of the ecological ramifications of that accident, he said. Many of the residents are anxiously hoping the government will find a way to relocate them.

Overall, Kosteva said, he found the average citizen to be anxious for the changes that they hope glasnost will bring. Among the politicians, he said, the attitudes varied.

"The people in Moscow are very anxious for change to take place," Kosteva said. "Outside, the party people have been king of the hill. They don't have to stand in line for goods. These people are entrenched party bureaucrats, and are resistant to change."

While the Russians were visiting the United States, Kosteva said, the Americans made no attempt to hide problems. The Soviets didn't exactly show the Americans their difficulties, but they soon became apparent.

"There was little doubt that they were sort of envious of what they saw here in the way of goods," he said. "There are more things on the shelves of the Meijer store in Canton than in all of Moscow."

Despite their lack of goods, Kosteva said, the Soviets are not plagued by the problems of homelessness and unemployment that affect Americans.

A similarity that exists between Russians and Americans, Kosteva said, is the desire to "make contact on global concerns."

And many misunderstandings based upon stereotypes exist on both sides, he said.

According to Kosteva, some of the Russians he met have a few misconceptions about the American "dress for success" idea.

"The Soviets felt that a specific shoe, like wing tips, would bring power," he said.

Despite the many differences he found, Kosteva said there are underlying similarities between the people of both nations.

"Deep down inside they're just like us."

Tax plan reviewed locally

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The "Patterson Proposal" will not win any votes from local school superintendents.

"Although the proposal does seem to have some salient features at first glance," said Dr. Edmond Beverly, superintendent of Inkster schools, "a close scrutiny reveals its restrictive nature, and, if approved by the voters would perpetuate the inequities presently embedded in school funding."

"I do not believe there is an in-formula school district that would support this proposal."

In-formula school districts are districts that must rely on state aid for their existence.

Most local educators, however, believe that "it's too early to consider the proposal."

"Let them gather the signatures and get the proposal on the ballot so that the people can debate it, then we will see if it has any merits. If they (Patterson group) don't get the signatures, everything we say or do today is needless," said Dr. Terrel LeCesne, assistant superintendent of Romulus schools.

The Patterson Proposal, authored by former Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson and economist Patrick Anderson, a vice-president at Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance, is in the initiative petition stage at this time. Supporters need 240,000 voter signatures before July 4 to place it on the November ballot.

What the proposal would do if approved by the voters, is require the Michigan legislature to shift approximately $700 million from other state programs to fund public schools.

The proposal would also guarantee that by the year 1992, school districts, via state guarantees, would spend a minimum of $4,100 per pupil. Presently some of the richer school districts have more than $7,000 to spend per pupil, while others have less than $3,000.

Among notable features in the Patterson Proposal are:

- It would tie future property tax increases to that of the rate of inflation;
- Roll back or place a cap on school taxes. That cap would be 30 mills. (A mill represents $1 of property tax for each $2,000 of state equalized property tax).
- The proposal, if approved, would also force the state lawmakers to earmark all lottery monies for the state school aid fund.

According to figures supplied by the state board of education, approximately $6.4 billion was spent on public education during the 1988-89 school year. Of those funds, 57 percent was generated from local property taxes and 39 percent was state funds distributed to local districts through the State School Aid Fund and through categorical grants, such as transportation and special education.

Opinion

Stop the war before the damage is done

There is a storm brewing on the horizon.

Rumblings can be heard in the Wayne County building. It is rumored that county Executive Edward McNamara is planning to run for the governorship in 1994. It is also rumored that he is plotting to pass down his throne midterm to his deputy Michael Duggan. This would allow Duggan the opportunity to run as the incumbent in the next election for the county executive post.

Duggan was not elected to his position, but rather was hand-picked by McNamara.

This has ruffled some feathers among the commissioners.

County commissioners are hoping to nip this "rumored" problem in the bud by amending the charter to make Duggan's position an elected one, and to change the manner in which vacancies in the executive post are filled.

Now that the problem is out in the open, the commissioners are prepared to beat it to the ground. That is their decision.

But as the commissioners prepare to do battle, and the executive rolls up his sleeves, let us not forget that there is a county to run. A county with very real concerns and problems that demand the full attention of leaders.

It was political in-fighting among leaders of Wayne County government which several years ago left the area in complete disarray. There was no money to speak of, and the general operation of the county was out of hand.

Since that time, great strides have been made by the county leaders now in office. Although they have butt heads from time to time, they have not let it become such an interference that all other issues are set aside.

Let this situation remain just that - an aside. The executive and the commissioners disagree - fine.

We ask county officials not to again become so bleary-eyed by the political plays, that they neglect the rest of us.

Fulfilling a promise

It seems Westland Mayor Robert Thomas is storming ahead to fulfill the promises made during his campaign.

He promised all Westland fire stations would be open every day, and last week he announced a plan to do just that.

But does that plan compromise the safety of firefighters and residents?

Members of the firefighters union believe it does, and on this issue we must accept the expert opinion.

Westland firefighters negotiated a contract two years ago which outlined specific procedures for the manning of fire stations. A certain number of firefighters must be on duty before all stations could be open. Each station had to be manned by a minimum number of firefighters.

Thomas has side-stepped this plan by establishing a different status of fire station - one that responds to rescue calls only.

The firefighters union has launched a grievance in this manner, calling the measure a violation of the contract, and a threat to the safety of firefighters and residents.

We support them in this claim. A contract was negotiated, and the terms are clear. Firefighters should not be asked to respond to a call - whether rescue or fire - without the proper support to back them up.

The fire stations may be open, but with this limited manning will they be effective in providing the assistance needed at the scene?

The firefighters think not, and neither do we. The only means for opening all fire stations in Westland under the negotiated contract would be to hire additional firefighters.

That move by Thomas, when he makes it, we will support.

False facts on firearms?

Don't Kosteva and company ever study the facts about firearms?

Fully automatic legally owned weapons have never been used in a crime by the owner. Also, the ownership of parts to convert a gun from semi-auto to full-auto is a federal felony. And is not an easy job if you own the parts. Ask any gunsmith.

As for a mental health check on would-be gun purchasers? These checks would be impossible, ask any doctor.

We already have a criminal check by the police, and it's a felony to lie on the federal form 4473.

Full automatic weapons are used in insignificant amounts by the drug dealers. Create a crisis and come up with inane solutions is the order of the day where guns are concerned.

Thanks for the support

Your editorial of Jan. 25, supporting the three school millage proposals on the Feb. 8 ballot was most appreciated. It is never popular to endorse a tax increase even when it directly affects "our hope for the future." Your understanding and explanation of the need for equitable school funding in the state of Michigan was most appropriate and accurate. Because increased local property tax is our only alternative, your support is invaluable. We will continue local belt-tightening, as well as, the pursuit of more equitable state funding.

Sex brings in money

Whoopi Goldberg urges viewers on a recent TV commercial to use condoms "for the baby's sake" to protect the baby from AIDS. Apparently the condom didn't prevent the pregnancy, but it will prevent AIDS. Teens are encouraged to be sexually active and do what they feel. Cervical cancer and sexually-transmitted diseases are on the rise. People are dying from AIDS at an alarming rate. Drug users are asked to clean needles with bleach, but not a word said about seeking the help they need. The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta says that syphilis cases reached an all-time high record of 44,000 cases this past year. Another commercial tells people to "think when you drink." Notice anything yet, people?

There's big money in sex-oriented businesses. They need your money to make a lucrative industry. The drug industry elicits billions of dollars each year from its victims. Alcohol absorbs multi-million dollar profits from its victims. And no one is advocating abstinence from any of these scourges on mankind.

And along come the public health programs so prevalent in our public schools who profess to teach abstinence on the one hand while passing out condoms with the other. Now, who do you think is paying for this mockery? The taxpayers, of course.

One will discover that ultimately many of the same parties who claim to have the best solutions to the problems facing today's teens, are oddly enough the perpetrators of these same problems. These same factions are not about to cut their purse strings by advocating abstinence from the same vehicles that support them in such a profitable manner.

Learn to "Just say no" to all of them. They're costing our children their lives.

Millage defeated what is next?

Unfortunately the millage has been defeated in the Wayne-Westland school district. What does this mean for the students now?

I think everyone was swayed by the bad publicity put out by the Citizens for Education Committee. If they are all for the best education, why did they print only about the superintendent's salary? This seemed to be their main concern. The school board is who voted in his salary, why don't you go after them instead of making the students pay the price for what you deem is someone's mistake?

No one is going to want to move to Wayne-Westland if the schools aren't good. You won't even be able to sell your house because no one will want to buy it because of the schools.

For the senior citizens who voted the millage down and use the Dyer Center, how do you think that facility for you stays open? Because of the millage being defeated that is the first thing that should go now.

People only look at one thing when this millage is being brought up and that is how much the "big shots" make. Well, I'm not saying I agree with the salaries that they make, but they don't have an easy job either and now because of this the students are the ones that will have to pay and the suffer the consequences.

Belleville dream ends in state finals

Tigers 2nd best on mats

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville High School came one victory short Saturday of realizing a dream most high school teams and coaches have – winning a state title.

Coach Gerald Malecek and the Tigers lost to a powerful contingent from Lake Orion in the Class A finals of the state wrestling championship, 47-21,

Adrian edges Romulus

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus wasted a career-high 35 points from junior Marlan Hicks and dropped a 79-77 double overtime decision to Adrian in a South Central Conference season-ending basketball game last week.

Hicks, a 6-foot forward, staked the Eagles to leads of 17-8 and 30-28, during the first two periods, but the hosts refused to quit and rallied back. Trailing by four (45-41), Adrian managed to snatch the lead 63-61 with seconds left in the regulation period when Romulus freshman Daniel Watson drilled in a 16-footer to tie the game and send the duel into overtime.

Both teams scored six points in the first extra period, Adrian, however, managed to come off the floor the winner when they outscored the Eagles 10-8 in the final three minutes of the SCC season.

staged in the Kellogg Arena in Battle Creek.

"Lake Orion is just an outstanding team," Malecek said after the decisive meet. "But, obviously, I am pretty happy and very proud of our team. Some didn't expect us to get this far. But we're here. Our kids did one heck of a job."

To reach the team finals, Belleville had to dispose of a hard-nosed and a state-ranked Plymouth-Salem squad in the district, then they went on to win the regional. The Tigers also defeated Hazel Park, 41-15, and Charlotte, 35-23, to earn a shot at Lake Orion in the finals.

Coaches lose 'their hair'

Belleville High School head wrestling coach Gerald Malecek and his assistant, Michael Beckley, "just don't look the same". They have lost some hair, thanks to their team members.

Beckley told the Tigers "if they defeated Plymouth-Salem" he'd shave his head.

Off came the hair after a Belleville victory at the district tournament.

And Malecek? "I told them that if they won two meets at the state finals I would shave off my mustache."

And the Tigers obliged by winning two, and reaching the state finals.

Zimmerman (152) proved too much for the local grapplers.

"A victory was taken away from our 189-pounder (Jeff Komaromi) by the official because he called Jeff for stalling on three consecutive calls. Jeff wound up losing, 8-7, and that was ridiculous."

After Belleville 103-pounder Jay Ballesteros lost via a 2:67 pin to Matt Henry, the Tigers tied the meet when 112-pounder Derek Reed disposed of Tony Lankford in 1:12, bringing 119-pounder Steven Davis and Lake Orion's Jeff Baker to the center mats. Davis earned a 7-4 victory over his opponent, lifting Belleville to the lead.

When Belleville's Todd Hendrix lost a 17-4 decision to Ryan Bissell, and Billy Yuhaz fell in 3:45 to Matt Steffans of Lake Orion in the 130-pound class, Lake Orion regained the lead again. They never again relinquished it.

The loss was the second for Belleville in 21 meets this year.

In the three years that the Michigan High School Athletic Association has organized a team championship in wrestling, this is the best finish for the Tigers. In the past, state titles were determined by the total points accumulated by individuals for their teams. The more wrestlers a team qualified for the finals, the better chance it had of winning the state title.

Malecek has had three previously undefeated teams – 1978 (11-0), 1981 (12-0-1) and 1985

(12-0) – and he believes that this squad is as good as the previously undefeated ones.

"However, I believe that our 1985 lineup, talent-wise, was probably the best I have coached," Malecek said.

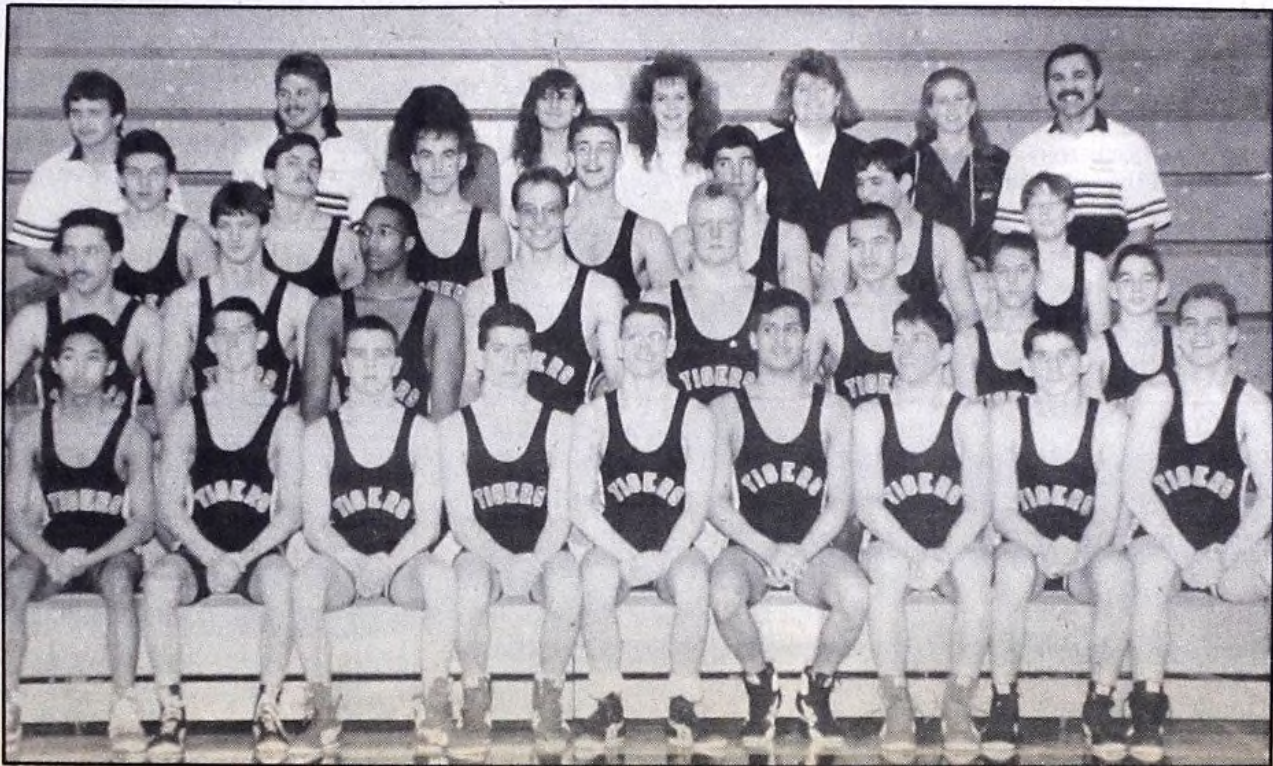

Malecek also attributed the success of the 1989-90 club "to their unselfishness and their self-discipline."

"You know, I never had to worry about these kids making weight," Malecek continued. "It takes a lot of self-discipline for a kid to make weight."

Malecek also lauded his two assistant coaches – John Ritchey and Mike Beckley – who were also former Belleville wrestlers.

"Because they (Beckley and Ritchey) were state qualifiers, and because they know my style of coaching, they make our job easier."

"It's team work that makes champions," Malecek concluded.

Belleville's 1989-90 varsity wrestling team rewrote the Tigers' record book as they reached the Class A state finals for the first time in the school's history. The Tigers also won their first regional title and second district crown after retaining the Wolverine 'A' Conference championships. Tigers miss last shot at title, 64-62

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Title-hopeful Belleville took undefeated Wayne Memorial to the wire before losing a cliffhanging 64-62 decision in the final game of the Wolverine 'A' Conference basketball season.

The game, rescheduled to Friday because of the Feb. 23 storm, was worth the wait, according to Belleville coach Michael Garland.

"No one likes to lose," Garland said, "but I'm sure that those who saw this game will not forget it. It was a thriller right down to the last basket."

The last basket, a three-point attempt by Belleville's Ron Hunter, hit the rim and just barely missed its intended target.

The victory gave the visiting Zebras the conference title outright. Wayne finished with a 14-0 conference record; Belleville was second with a 12-2 mark.

Hunter turned in a superlative individual performance. He connected on 11 field goals and hit on seven of 11 free throws for a game-high 29 points. Teammate Paul Gardette also finished in double figures with 16.

Wayne netted 22 points from Larry Johnson, while Kevin Hankerson and Reggie Brandon each had 14 points.

Wayne jumped to an 18-10 first-period lead and, during that opening period, held as much as a 10-point advantage, before Hunter and the Tigers came back. Belleville still faced a 40-34 deficit when the halftime whistle sounded. The Tigers managed to shave three points from the Zebra lead as the two teams headed into the fourth quarter with Wayne out front, 55-52.

With the lead exchanging hands at least seven times in the stretch, Belleville finally went up 62-61 with 1:27 remaining in the game. Then, Johnson's jump shot found its mark, returning the lead to the Zebras, 63-62. After a Belleville time out, Andrew Wells was fouled and the Tiger cager went to the line for a one-and-one. He missed the front end.

Inkster advances to semis

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With high-scoring Claude McReynolds scoring six points and Marcus Kewley collecting four, the Vikings of Inkster rode a 10-point bulge to a 65-62 victory over Divine Child in the first round of the Class B district basketball playoffs at Robichaud.

"We played tough when we had to, but our foul shooting must improve if we want to continue to win in the playoffs," said Inkster coach George Thompson Jr. as he prepared his Vikings for the semifinals. "To their credit D. C. played us tough. We turned this thing around in the second half."

Though the Vikings briefly enjoyed a 10-point edge in the last period, the outcome of the game was easy to predict. Inkster had a slim 19-16 edge after the first eight minutes, but the Falcons came back on the strength of Rob Valentino's 12 points to take over 32-31 at the half. D.C. would not yield in the third, either, as they stayed in front 48-46.

But with McReynolds and Tyron Orr supplying the Vikings the ammunition, Inkster pulled away by 10 only to see the Falcons make a comeback that fell short.

Orr fired in nine field goals, four of them from three-point range. He finished with a game high 22 points. McReynolds was close behind with 20. Valentino accounted for 20 of the Falcons' points.

Inkster hit on seven of 16 from the foul line as compared to D.C.'s 12 of 17 effort from the same distance.

Inkster should have no problems dealing with their semifinal foe, Dearborn Heights Annapolis, which has struggled through the 1989-90 campaign. However, the winner of the semis will face the winner of the Willow Run-Robichaud game.

The Flyers have the services of three of their players who were ineligible earlier in the season. They should have no problems avenging a loss to Robichaud, which took advantage of them when they were not at full strength.

Belleville's Paul Gardette (number 20, above) hugs the base line as he drives past a Wayne defender during the Friday night showdown with undefeated Wayne Memorial. Gardette pumped in 16 points, but it went for naught. The Tigers came out on the short end of a 64-63 decision. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Romulus rallies by Belleville

By TOM MOORADIAN

Romulus exploded for 30 points in the final period, and senior guard Virgil Davis canned six-of-six at the free throw line as the host rallied past Belleville, 79-75, in the first round of the Class A district basketball playoffs Monday night.

The victory advanced Coach Chris Molloy's Eagles into the Wednesday night semifinal round where they were scheduled to meet Taylor Truman in the second game of a two-game card at 7 p.m. In the opener, Taylor Kennedy was to play Southgate Anderson.

The two winners will advance to the championship round, which will be played at 7 p.m. Friday at Romulus high school. The district champ will advance to the regional playoffs at Ypsilanti High School.

"It was a hard-fought, contested game," said Molloy, whose club sported an 11-10 record after the victory. "Belleville has a lot of gutsy kids and you have to give Hunter (Ron Hunter) a lot of credit. He is one heck of a player."

Hunter was one of four Tiger players – Rod Hill, Benjie Goldston and Paul Gardette – who provided Belleville with a balanced scoring attack. In fact, it was the Tigers who were the aggressors most of the game.

Up 16-12 in the first period, Belleville coach Mike Garland saw his team increase their

Romulus spikers ousted at district

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne Memorial, a perennial Class A state powerhouse in high school girls' volleyball, erased Romulus from its path in the semifinal round of the district playoffs en route to the championship and a regional berth.

In a series they hosted, the Zebras trampled Romulus in a pair of games, 15-8 and 15-5, after Coach Gail Coleman's Eagles drew a first-round bye.

Wayne Memorial went on to meet natural rival, Westland John Glenn, (the two schools are in the same school district) in the championship round, and surfaced the winner. The Zebras will compete for the regional title Saturday.

"We played well," Coleman said. "However, Wayne is just a much bigger and stronger team than we are."

The loss brought the curtains down on an excellent 30-16 won-lost Romulus season. The Eagles finished second in the South Central Conference.

Coleman said she was pleased "overall with the 1989-90 campaign."

"We obviously had our ups and downs," she added, "however, we did play well as a team, and

We obviously had our ups and downs, however, overall for the season I am pleased with our performance. These girls played well as a team.

it was a very good learning experience for all of the players."

Against Wayne, Jennifer Daniel turned in an exceptional game as she accounted for 11 assists. Teammate Tammy Trubilowicz and Brooke Hammers chipped in with four and three kills, respectively.

Off the 1989-90 lineup, Coleman will lose only two players – Susan Hamel and Christine Stratton – to graduation. She will have an excellent nucleus of seven juniors – Jennifer Daniel, Tammy Trubilowicz, Brooke Hammer, Michele Scarow, Angela Slawinski, Susan Molenda and Renee Bitner, along with two sophomores – Charmaine Smith and Jennifer McClure – to build for the future.

The girls' volleyball season at Romulus High School came to an abrupt end Saturday as defending champ, Wayne Memorial, ousted the Eagles in the semifinal round of the Class A district playoffs. A dejected Jennifer Daniel (above) rests during a "timeout" in the recent tournament. Daniel, a junior, will be one of nine underclassmen returning to the Eagles' lineup next year. They'll be shooting to improve upon an impressive 30-16 record. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Southwestern cagers show Inkster why they're ranked No.1 in nation

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The Vikings of Inkster High School learned the hard way why Detroit Southwestern is ranked the No. 1 high school basketball team in the nation this year.

The undefeated Prospectors invaded Inkster last week and unleashed an awesome balanced assault that humbled the Vikings, 74-50, in a non-league game.

"They are a complete team," said Inkster coach George Thompson, Jr. "They are a coach's dream team. There isn't just one star, but every player in that lineup from the bench to the starting five can do it to you in every way."

The Prospectors came at Inkster with the opening pitch. They jumped out to a 22-10 first-period lead and never looked back. The Detroiters led 41-29 at halftime, then as they shuffled players in and out of the game, outscored their hosts 19-9 and 14-12 in the final two periods.

Carlan Mace, with 13 points led the undefeated Detroit Public School champion, who placed 11 players in the scoring column. Inkster received 14 points from Tyron Orr, and Claude McReynolds chipped in 13.

The loss dipped the Vikings' overall record on the year to 10-8.

Romulus places 2 on all-league team

Two Romulus high school players were among the 10 outstanding players named last week by coaches to the All-South Central Conference team.

The team is selected by the SCC head coaches of Ann Arbor Pioneer, Ann Arbor Huron, Ypsilanti, Adrian, and Romulus.

Larry Perkins and Virgil Davis represent coach Chris Molloy and the Eagles on the coveted team.

Perkins, a 6-foot senior forward, who has averaged 10 points per game and three rebounds, and Virgil Davis, a 6-foot-9-inch senior, who contributed 13 points and eight assists per outing, were named to the SCC Second Team. They are joined by Charles Coleman (6 feet 5 inches, Ypsilanti High), David Amos (6 feet 5 inches, Ann Arbor Huron), and Matt Essel (5 feet 10 inches, Ann Arbor Pioneer). Amos is the only junior on the second team.

Coaches named the following lineup for the first string: Kareem Carpenter (6 feet 6 inches, AA Huron); Sean Kenny (6 feet 2 inches, AA Pioneer); Curt Fisher (6 feet 2 inches, Adrian); Wendell Rodgers (6 feet 3 inches, Ypsilanti), and Eric Culliver (6 feet, AA Huron). Rodgers, a junior, is the only underclassmen to break into the starting lineup. Ypsilanti and Huron, with 6-2 records, won the title.

15, while Marlin Hicks added 14 and Kelvin Brown counted 13. Perkins and Davis finished with 12 and 11, respectively.

On the other side of the scoring ledger, Hill's 19 points stood as the game high. Hunter counted 16 points while Goldston and Gardette contributed

Deposits considered for automobile batteries

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

With landfills becoming more and more obsolete, state Rep. Jim Kosteva (D-Canton Township) is influencing citizens to return car batteries for deposit rather than throw them away.

In an effort to decrease societal need for landfill space, state legislators have approved a bill that would require car battery manufacturers to place deposits on the batteries.

After a purchaser replaces an old battery, they would then take it to a licensed collection, or recycling facility, according to Kosteva's report.

Deposits on beverage containers in Michigan proved to be so successful, Kosteva said, that a similar program for car batteries seems realistic.

Although the law won't go into effect until 1993, purchasers of batteries will pay a $6.00 deposit, which will be returned when they return the battery.

Keeping batteries out of landfills will eliminate the risk of lead acid seeping into the groundwater. Groundwater contamination at landfills is a major concern of environmentalists today, Kosteva said.

Incinerating batteries also isn't safe, according to industry experts. The metals in a battery such as zinc, copper and lead are known to cause public health risks, according to Kosteva.

Incinerator ash which contains any hazardous materials creates an additional hazard to the public.

Kosteva said that in years to come it is likely more and more amounts of household trash will be incinerated.

Legislators are also considering a deposit requirement on nickel cadmium and mercury batteries used in many household appliances. A report from the committee studying battery deposits and recycling options is to be presented to the legislature by 1992, according to Kosteva. Kosteva said that by encouraging people to return car batteries for a deposit, the environment will benefit.

Recycling efforts to be launched

Educational programs to promote recycling are slated to be developed by the Conference of Western Wayne with funds awarded through a state Quality of Life grant.

CWW Executive Director Daniel Gilmartin reported that a $24,500 education grant, which was applied for earlier this year, has been awarded to the 17-community organization.

"Beginning in October, educational programs dealing with recycling and other solid waste disposal issues will be offered to all of our 17 communities," Gilmartin said. "We have always believed that education is the key to changing the long-term habits of the public, and these funds will allow us to begin our educational efforts."

"Our main thrust will be a speakers' bureau, which will be available to schools, groups and organizations in western Wayne County. Our goal is to make 520 presentations between October, 1990, through September, 1991," Gilmartin said.

Gilmartin said there many locations throughout the 17 communities where recyclables are collected, but these sites are not well known.

Nominees for truck of the year are announced

By JOHN AGGE
ANP Staff Writer

Truck and sport utility vehicle sales continue to buck the national slump in automobile sales, boasting a 15 percent increase in sales from last year, and gaining popularity in just about every market, from families to young drivers, in the country.

With this unparalleled growth in the truck segment of the auto industry, Motor Trend Magazine editors recently announced the nominees for the 1990 Truck of the Year.

From the wedge-front futuristic vans to the rugged yet family-oriented sport trucks, this competition will be keen. The winner of the award will be announced in April.

Originally, 14 vehicles qualified for the award.

General Motors officials chose to withhold the Chevrolet Astro and the GMC S-15 Jimmy from the competition to give more of the limelight to their Chevrolet S-10 Blazer and GMC Safari.

Chrysler declined an invitation from Motor Trend to enter its all-new Town & Country vehicle because it markets it as a car-like wagon and not a truck. Toyota officials followed suit with Chrysler in holding back its Previa van.

The trucks in the running? Glad you asked:

John Agge

feel good when you're in this mini-van. As Motor Trend notes, "any vehicle that has signal/brake lights running to the roofline demands attention."

Chevrolet S-10 Blazer

A perennial best-seller, the S-10 Blazer now offers two more doors providing an opportunity for more families to enjoy this selling success. Some things never change, including the Blazer's V-6 engine (largest in its class), sporty looks and more-than adequate towing capacity. Hook the boat to the back, put the kids in the back and go.

Ford Aerostar E-4WD

The original slant-nose van has additional offerings for this model. An optional electronic four-wheel-drive, new 4-liter V-6 engine and rear anti-lock brakes are a few of the new features Ford has to offer. The seats are easily removed for additional storage and the plush Eddie Bauer trim package keeps things comfy.

Daihatsu Rocky

So what if you can't pronounce the name? This sporty little number in the sport/mini class offers the young (or not-so-young) driver an inexpensive fun machine. The Rocky offers a 16-valve multiport fuel-injected engine and a wide, low-slung track.

Ford Explorer

The newest Ford offering in the sport/utility field. As the Bronco II slowly fades from view, the Explorer entry is geared to a more upscale market. An all new 4-liter V-6 engine gives the Explorer a kick and the interior is plush and comfortable. The towing capacity, though is still not in the class of the S-10, is increased.

Next week, the remaining five entries.

Ford to offer special T-Bird

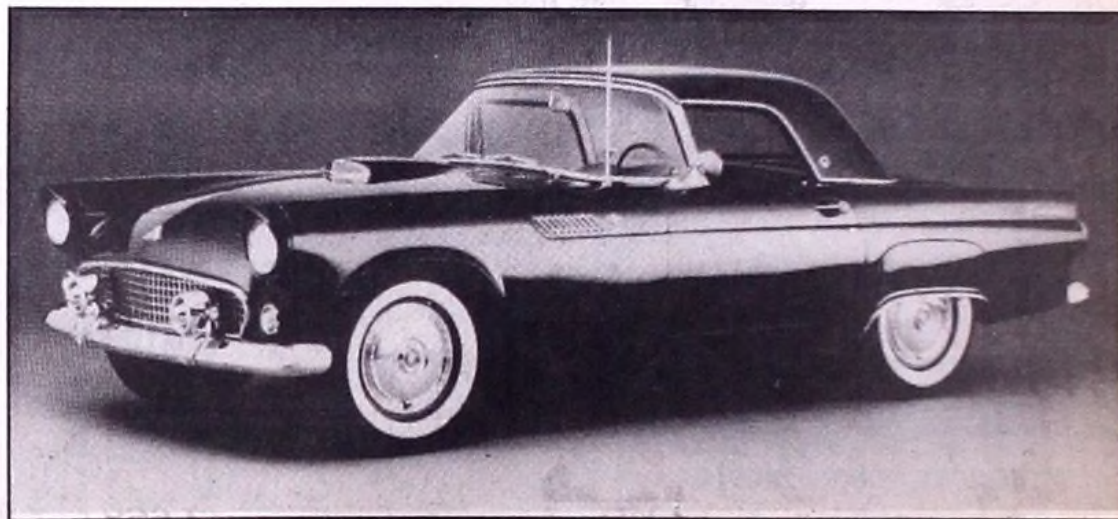

Ford Motor Company officials recently announced the company will produce a special, limited-edition 1990 Thunderbird to celebrate the 35th anniversary of the model.

The plan calls for Ford to build 5,000 commemorative T-Birds. The car will have a distinguished black-over-titanium exterior color and black alloy road wheels. Leather and suede grace the seat covers.

Ford has sold more than 3.2 million T-Birds since the car was introduced in 1955. The best-selling year for the car was 1978, when more than 300,000 cars were sold. The first year of the Thunderbird existence was the slowest selling period when 14,771 units were sold.

Ivana Trump isn't alone. Personally, I know just how she feels.

As has been previously reported (by yours truly) my mate, too, has been having a public affair with another woman. True, the threat to my sacred union isn't exactly in the Marla Maples category, but the continued liaison between my beloved spouse and this "homewrecker" is a source of genuine heartbreak to me.

It's been no secret that for years my husband has had a relationship with this strumpet, and she's every bit as married as he is. You know who she is, we've talked about this floozie before. The woman who strikes a glimmer of avarice in my attorney's heart is none other than that tramp Debbie Field's. You know, the Mrs. Field's of Mrs. Field's Cookies. My poor, weak mate simply cannot resist this creature.

And I wouldn't get so annoyed, except she's everywhere. This is no longer just a brief fling he's having, it's turned into a nearly constant thing. She flaunts herself in every mall and shopping center in the area, and certainly makes no secret of her desires. There is just no escaping her attempts to seduce him. I mean she is so blatant, displaying her wares, so to speak, publicly in showcases, no less. This has gone just too far.

Hey, I've talked about this before. She taunts him and teases him with her perfume the minute he gets anywhere within radius, and then she parades her charms flagrantly and openly, just trying to entice him. Well, the man is only human.

Actually, I know this relationship will never evolve into anything more than a temporary gratification for the two of them. If I've told him once, I've told him a dozen times (get it?) that this woman is only in this situation for what she can get out of it. I mean, to be absolutely candid, she's after his money. And, while he is embarrassed to admit it, he has confessed that, for him, the relationship is purely a physical thing.

What's the big attraction, I keep demanding. He can't, or won't explain it, so I just keep trying to provide what he's looking for at home, to keep him out of the malls.

Eat your heart out, Debbie, he's mine and I'm keeping him.

Sand tarts

Cookie dough:

- 1 stick unsalted butter
- 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour (pastry flour is preferable)

Garnish:

- 3 egg whites
- 6 dozen almond halves
- 1/2 cup sugar blended with 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream the butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Mix the egg and egg yolk together and beat into the butter-sugar mixture a little at a time. Blend in the flour, being careful not to overmix the dough. Chill the dough for at least one hour. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Lightly grease several cookie sheets. Roll out the dough to 1/8-inch thickness on a lightly floured board. Cut into 2-inch diameter circles. Lightly beat the egg whites with a little water to make a wash, and brush the cookies with the wash and place an almond half in the center of each one. Sprinkle with cinnamon sugar and place on the prepared cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for about 8 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool thoroughly on wire racks and store in airtight tins.

Recipe collection of renown

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Some of the recipes in Josephine Brooks' collection date back more than 40 years - they work well, and she has stuck with them.

Sorting through an index card box, some of the papers Brooks pulls out are worn tissue, thin, the writing barely legible. They are stapled to newer copies in Brooks' hand.

A mother and a grandmother, the Inkster resident has found requests for her specialties have slowed little over the years. A favorite with her children, she said, is her raisin meringue pie, one of the few goodies she prepares without a recipe. A Canadian dessert, the filling is made from vanilla pudding/pie filling, boiled raisins and juice from the boiled fruit. The key, Brooks said, is to combine the pudding and raisins while they are both hot. Topping the pie is Brooks' special meringue made with marshmallow cream (see recipe below).

"For me measurements have to be exact. I'm not one to put in a pinch of this or a dash of that."

Attention to details, Brooks said, tends to pay off.

"I think these are very important."

If a recipe calls for egg whites or butter at room temperature, she continued, make sure they are at room temperature.

The only area in which she may dissent is baking temperature. What works in one oven may require a lower temperature in another.

Despite her painstaking efforts to follow directions, Brooks said she enjoys baking.

"I like to bake better than cooking. I've never minded cooking much. I've had my mother here so many years, and she enjoyed it so much I ended up doing the baking."

It was not her mother who taught Brooks her skills, she learned from necessity.

"I was married quite young," she said. "Everything I've mastered I had to learn myself."

Among her favorites are fruit chews (made with Bisquick) and fresh strawberry pie.

A challenge for many, pie crust is not especially difficult to Brooks.

"I have a good recipe," she said. For a flaky crust, she adds a little sugar. Just before baking is complete, she brushes it with butter or coffee cream which helps the crust to brown more evenly.

What Brooks does find most challenging, she said, is the preparation required before baking.

"With apple pie it's cutting the apples. With scones it's cutting together the flour and sugar."

Another favorite with Brooks, a recipe for scones is listed below with some other classics from her collection.

Scones

- 3 cups flour
- 5 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup oleo
- 1 egg and enough milk to fill 1 cup
- 1 cup raisins

Combine dry ingredients. Cut in shortening until balls form the size of small peas. Form dough with hands and allow to refrigerate one hour. Add egg/milk mixture. Mix well. Stir in raisins. Drop onto greased cookie sheet and bake at 350 to 375 degrees 12 to 15 minutes. Makes approximately 30 scones.

Strawberry pie

- 1 quart berries
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons flour
- Pinch (1/8 teaspoon) salt
- Baked pie shell

Clean berries. Save enough perfect ones to cover bottom of pie shell (drained well with stem side up). Mash remaining berries and bring to boil. Add sugar, flour and salt. Blend well. Stir over medium heat until mixture is thick. Cool. Pour over berries in shell. Refrigerate at least two hours. Serve with whipped cream.

Best pie shell

- 2 1/4 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/4 pound cold unsalted butter
- 5 rounded tablespoons Crisco
- 5 tablespoons cold water

Place flour and sugar in medium size mixing bowl. Cut in butter with pastry knife to size of large peas. Add Crisco, stirring lightly, drizzle in water with fork, mixing to form dough. Be careful not to over mix - stop when ingredients are blended. Refrigerate one hour (this brings back firmness of butter) on lightly floured board, dough should be covered. Roll out dough to desired size and place in greased pie tin. Be careful not to turn dough too much. A secret in keeping it flaky - bake eight minutes at 425 degrees. Reduce to 350 degrees for 18 minutes. Ten minutes before crust is done, brush with melted butter or coffee cream.

Meringue

- 4 egg whites at room temperature
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 7 1/2-ounce jar marshmallow sauce

Beat egg whites with cold, dry beaters at high speed. Add salt and beat until mixture holds peaks. Reduce to medium speed. Beat in marshmallow cream. Beat approximately five minutes or until cook can draw finger through mixture and it holds the groove. Bake at 425 degrees three minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake five minutes.

Inkster resident Josephine Brooks has a recipe collection spanning 40 years. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Fruit chews

- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup Bisquick mix
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 cup chopped dates
- 1 16-ounce jar maraschino cherries, drained and chopped

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix sugar, butter and eggs well. Stir in Bisquick. Fold in nuts, dates and cherries. Spread in well-greased oblong pan, 13-by-9-by-2 inches. Bake 30 minutes. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Loosen edges with spatula and cut in bars. Remove from pan carefully - cookies are delicate when warm. Sprinkle with or roll in powdered sugar.

7-Up mold

- 2 packages lemon Jello
- 2 cups hot water
- 2 cups cold 7-Up
- 1 20-ounce can crushed pineapple drained (save the juice)
- 1 1/2 cups small marshmallows
- 3 or 4 bananas, diced

Topping:

- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cup pineapple juice
- 2 tablespoons flour

Mix together ingredients for mold and gelatin using directions on Jello package. Mix ingredients for topping. Cook over medium heat, stirring until thick. Cool. Add 1/2 pint whipped cream. Spread over firm jello mixture and serve. Crush nuts can be sprinkled over top if desired.

Warm up the grill, spring brings outdoor cookin'

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

They can be romantic, they can be fun, but without proper planning picnics can be disasters.

Most experienced picnickers have decided certain foods simply do not work outdoors. When they are eliminated, a picnic is more likely to run smoothly.

"Jello never works out in a picnic. It always melts," said Darlene Brothers, manager of Leright's, a Westland catering outfit.

Mayonnaise has a very short life span, and Brothers tries to avoid it altogether. If a customer insists on a recipe that contains mayonnaise such as potato salad, deviled eggs or cole slaw, she keeps it packed in ice.

Also risky are hot dogs, hamburger or ham.

"They just don't hold up well," she said.

More durable are barbecued meats.

"Baked beans are always good," she added. "They can be served warm or cold."

Dave Kemp, owner of Dearborn-based Kemp's Catering Inc., suggested serving corn on the cob, fruit or marinated vegetables.

A safer way to serve easily perishable foods like potato salad is to buy it from a deli, he said.

"They put in the preservatives that make it safe. Then you can add your own special touches," Kemp said.

When he serves barbecued meat, Kemp sometimes prepares it in advance. At the picnic, he heats the meat over the grill, basting it generously with sauce.

When cooks do opt for the grill, the further they are from the rest of the group the better, said Barbara Lamphear, general manager of Chef's Pride Port-A-Pit Bar-B-Q in Taylor. Distance provides less opportunity for accidents, especially if children are running around.

Lamphear pointed out cooking over a grill can be difficult. Unless a gas grill is used, controlling the heat is nearly impossible.

"Rotate the food from one end to another," she said, to ensure even cooking.

The meat should be partially cooked before sauce is added. When it is added too early, sauce tends to "glob", blacken and possibly lose flavor. It also disguises burning.

Lamphear said checking for doneness is relatively simple. With chicken, pull a leg slightly to the right. It should break away easily, popping from the socket. The meat should be white with no blood.

A similar test can be done for ribs. The meat should pull away from the bones easily.

To prevent burns, Lamphear suggested always wearing cooking mitts and using long-handled utensils. Water - spray bottles, buckets or hoses - should always be nearby.

Anything that touches raw meat - utensils, gloves, cutting boards - should never come in contact with the cooked product unless it has been thoroughly cleaned. Raw meat contains bacteria, Lamphear said, and can cause food poisoning.

When cleaning a grill, always use a paper towel. Non-disposable towels or rags retain dirt and bacteria. To clean utensils, Lamphear suggested spraying with a degreasing agent, rinsing with water, and then rinsing again.

When dessert time comes, cakes should be avoided, Brothers said because frosting melts down easily.

Combined with the picnic experts' advice, the simple recipes supplied below may make for a more uncomplicated meal.

Barbecue sauce

- 1 quart dark vinegar
- 1 teaspoon coarse black pepper
- 1 teaspoon red pepper
- 1 teaspoon red pepper flakes
- 2 tablespoons molasses
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 3 lemons, sliced thick as pencil
- 6-ounce can tomato paste
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 stick real butter

Simmer vinegar, peppers, molasses, mustard and lemon slices until pulp comes out of lemons, and remove rind. Base meat with above. Add tomato paste, Worcestershire sauce and butter and simmer very slowly 15 to 20 minutes. Do not boil. Serve with hickory-smoked pork barbecue.

Pork barbecue

- 4-5 pounds pork roast
- 1/2 cup vinegar

- 1 chopped onion water to cover

Sauce:

- 1 tablespoon each: chili powder
- salt, celery seed
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1/4-1/2 cup molasses or dark brown sugar
- 1 1/2 cups tomato juice
- 1/2 cup vinegar
- 3 tablespoons liquid from meat

Cover meat with water in a large, heavy pot on top of stove. Add vinegar and onion and simmer, covered four to five hours. Let cool, then remove meat, reserving liquid. Shred meat, removing fat and put in heavy, covered pan (or crock pot). Simmer meat in above mild sauce (or your favorite barbecue sauce) approximately two hours more. Serves eight to 10 people.

Barbecued red snapper

- 2 pounds red snapper steaks or fillets
- 1 six-ounce can tomato paste
- 1/3 cup water
- 2 tablespoons lime juice

Plunge into summer Walt Disney World, cruises beckon vacationers

By RANDY FRANK
ANP Special Writer

What do Walt Disney World and Caribbean cruises have in common?

Well, either together or separate, both are the hottest family vacation activities in 1990.

According to Mary Hyer, a travel agent with Venture Out Travel Service in Westland, a combination trip featuring a cruise and Disney World is very popular as Michiganders grow tired of the cold weather.

Hyer said Premier Cruise Lines offers a package where travelers spend three nights at Disney World in Orlando, Fla., and four nights on a cruise ship (or vice versa).

"Travelers can choose between a three- or four-night cruise to either Nassau and Salt Cay, Bahamas or the beautiful Abacos Out Islands in the Caribbean," Hyer said.

After the cruise the remaining nights are spent at Walt Disney World.

The week-long vacation provides enjoyable activities for adults and children, she said. Kids have their own cruise director who plans supervised activities, while parents can enjoy the pool decks, lounges and casinos on board the ship.

Children will also be happy to see Mickey Mouse, Goofy or their other favorite Disney characters on the ship.

On the second day of the Nassau and Salt Cay cruise, travelers will visit Nassau, the capital of the Bahamas known for its glamorous casinos and nightlife. Hyer said on day three travelers will visit the blue lagoons and beautiful beaches of Salt Cay where snorkeling, sailing and windsurfing are available.

On day four, the cruise ship returns to Cape Canaveral and the Disney World portion of the trip - including Epcot Center and the new Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park, begins.

At the MGM Studios Theme Park visitors will see stuntmen re-create stunts from movies like "Indiana Jones" or will watch Disney characters come to life in the animation tour.

Hyer said the combo package is attractive to people because it offers activities that parents and children can do together or separately. "A four-night cruise and a three-night Disney package starts at $950 per person," she added.

Sue Major, a travel agent and assistant manager at Your Travel Planner in Garden City, said the combination cruise and Disney trips are also popular with single parents, because some cruise lines offer a single-parent plan where one adult is charged for a room and there's a special rate for the child.

Major said Disney World trips without a cruise are still popular. Disney, Epcot Center and MGM Studios offer activities which will interest both adults and children, she said.

A four-day trip to Walt Disney World including air, car rental, lodging and admission to the park is approximately $800 per person, Major said.

Bring family pet along for the ride

By RANDY FRANK
ANP Special Writer

Ahh, vacation time. You call your travel agent and happily make reservations at your favorite vacation spot. But just as you hang up the phone, your dog barks and mournfully looks at you with his or her big sad eyes as if to say, "What about me?"

You realize "Rover" is part of the family, and you want him to come along, but you ask, is it possible to safely travel with pets? The answer is yes!

According to Jackie Kunze, assistant shelter manager at the Michigan Humane Society Westland branch, pets can be taken on trips as long as some precautions are followed.

Kunze recommends that dog owners take their pets on short road trips before taking them on longer treks. Driving to the neighborhood party store, for example, will acclimate your pet to the feeling of being in a moving vehicle.

"Pet owners shouldn't feed their dogs directly before traveling, because dogs may get sick," Kunze said.

When you take a reststop break, then give the animal some water, she said. Frequent stops should be made for exercise and bathroom.

For plane trips, pets will travel in carriers in the baggage area. She said that most airlines have a one pet per trip rule.

Airlines require animal vaccinations be current. Also expect to pay additional plane fare for taking a pet on board, Kunze said.

Michael Martinez, trainer and kennel manager at the AAA Canine College in Taylor, added, "Before traveling, pet owners should ask the motel or hotel manager if pets are accepted. AAA, American Kennel Clubs and Gaines Food Company also provide pet owners with information about lodging where pets are welcome."

For car trips, Martinez said a dog should be placed in a crate, such as a milk crate, with a piece of the owner's clothing. The scent from the clothing will reassure the pet that his owner is nearby, and will have a calming effect for a nervous animal, he said.

He also recommended obedience training to teach dogs to obey owner's commands. The training is helpful when an owner commands a dog to stay in or leave a car.

As a last resort, a veterinarian can give a nervous pet an injection or pill which will prevent travel sickness, Martinez suggested.

Martinez said, "If pet owners want more travel advice or think their pet needs obedience training, they should contact a trainer."

Dive in

Warm temperatures and bright sunshine are just around the corner. For those who won't be able to venture far from home this summer, area communities offer plenty of opportunities to enjoy yourself. Danny Pearson (above) enjoyed his summer last year at the Huron Metropark pool. Pearson, 10, takes a heads-first approach to diving.

A picture-perfect trip

By JOHN AGGE
ANP Staff Writer

Long after a vacation is over, photographs can serve as permanent reminders of a special time or place.

Photos can also serve as a source of ridicule from friends, and embarrassment to yourself as you try to figure out how you cut half of the wife's head out of the picture, how the children in the shot are so out of focus you're not sure they're yours or how you managed to spend a fortune on a camera that doesn't even take good pictures.

Advances in camera technologies make it more difficult than ever to completely "screw up" photographing the family vacation, but there are a few basic rules to follow to make sure your photos are the best they can be.

Consider the camera itself. An expensive camera is not necessarily required, Associated Newspapers staff photographer Werner Slocum said.

"Nikon, Canon, Minolta and Pentax are all major producers of 35mm compact cameras with automatic focus," Slocum said. "They range in price from $75 to $300."

The compact camera should be versatile enough to handle the task of capturing a vacation on film, Slocum said.

A common mistake of novice

You can shoot photographs just as good as this one taken at Busch Gardens in Florida with a little practice and some good advice. ANP file photo photographers with compact cameras is they don't realize the viewfinder and the lens are not positioned on the camera exactly. A slight adjustment in aim may be necessary, Slocum said, to avoid cutting part of the subject from the shot.

Other common errors by amateur photographers are backing up too far from the main subject of the shot, and centering the horizon in the exact middle of the picture, Slocum said.

A photographer can practice picture composition without taking pictures. Just looking through the viewfinder from different angles and viewpoints can educate a novice as to what makes a good picture.

SOUTH KOREA PAST AND PRESENT

One of the wonders of the Orient is South Korea, with its rich past and dazzling present. The capital city, Seoul, has a population of more than eight million, making it one of the ten largest cities in the world. This pulsing, modern metropolis has a rich history that is treasured and lovingly preserved. It includes Kyongbok Palace, built in 1395 by Inkg Taejo, founder of the Yi dynasty.

Admired for its structural beauty as well as its gardens, within the palace grounds is the National Museum, whose prize artifacts include royal jewels, paintings, celadons of the Koryo dynasty, and images of Buddha, some of which are more than 1000 years old. Seoul's East Gate leads to the country's most colorful bazaar and many shopping bargains.

The city also contains a charming folk village where the people follow time-honored customs, wear traditional dress, and where artisans, including calligraphers and silk weavers, ply their trades.

We will be visiting Seoul on our shopping spree trip November 5-15. Contact us for a detailed itinerary.

Local lake is boaters' haven

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Everything is ready for a great boating season on Belleville Lake - except the weather, reported Sandy Gillespie, owner of Sandy's Marina.

"We've got the water, and all we need now is some good weather," Gillespie said. "Fishing has been excellent, and we expect it to continue to be great. In fact, the Department of Natural Resources has rated Belleville Lake as one of the best fishing sites in south-eastern Michigan."

Gillespie has operated the marina, which has dockage for 88 boats, the past 12 years, and expects to see her docks filled to capacity this spring.

"Pontoon boats are gaining in popularity, but we have all types of boats on Belleville Lake from small fishing boats to ski boats and all types of pleasure crafts," Gillespie said. "We have boats on the lake ranging from 22 to 25 feet."

Belleville Lake, known as "the jewel of Van Buren Township," was a narrow, rambling portion of the Huron River prior to the mid-1920s. Early in the decade, Detroit Edison Co. purchased parcels of property along the Huron River, and in 1924-25 dammed the river to produce power. The dam at French Landing created 1,170-acre Belleville Lake and, in turn, drew hundreds of boaters and fishermen to the area. During the 1970s, Detroit Edison turned over the dam and a 101-acre park to the township. The French Landing Dam, which was inactive for several years, was repaired and reactivated two years ago, and since that time, the water levels have stabilized in the lake, consequently, providing a better site for recreational activities.

In 1973, the entire fish population - mostly carp and suckers - was removed by the DNR fisheries division, and the

- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon garlic salt

Thaw fish if frozen; cut into serving-size portions. Combine remaining ingredients in a small bowl. Arrange fish on grill or broiler pan about four inches from heat source. Brush generously with sauce. Cook six to 10 minutes. Turn, brush with more sauce and cook seven to 10 minutes longer or just until fish flakes when tested with a fork (length of cooking time depends on thickness of fish). Do not overcook. Makes six servings.

Cranberry fruit punch

- 1 quart fresh cranberries
- 7 cups water
- Cheesecloth
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 quart ginger ale

Cook cranberries in four cups of water until tender. Crush and drain through cheesecloth. Combine sugar with remaining three cups of water and boil for five minutes. Add cranberry juice to this syrup and chill. Add orange juice and lemon juice. Just before serving, add ginger ale.

Pineapple sherbet

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3 cups cubed pineapple
- 1 cup light corn syrup

In small saucepan sprinkle gelatin over milk. Stir over low heat until dissolved. Place in blender container with fruit and corn syrup; cover. Blend on high speed 30 seconds. Pour into 9-by-9-by-2-inch baking pan. Cover; freeze overnight. Soften slightly at room temperature, 10 to 15 minutes. Spoon into large bowl; with mixer at low speed, beat until smooth but not melted. Pour into 4-cup mold or freezer container. Cover; freeze approximately four hours or until firm. Unmold or soften at room temperature for easier scooping. Makes approximately four cups.

lake was restocked with millions of walleye, large and smallmouth bass, bluebill, crappie, catfish, white bass and tiger muskellunge. Since that time, Gillespie reported, fishing has continually improved.

The DNR also operates a public access site on East Huron River Drive, and the department plans to establish an additional launching and fishing site on the lake.

Private docks also ring the lake and provide access for homeowners and apartment dwellers who enjoy water sports.

Jordan's II has become a popular lunch and dinner spot since its opening. The restaurant is located on the border of Romulus and Wayne. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Jordan's elegance is matched by affordability

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

At first glance, Jordan's II appears to be a nightclub or formal restaurant. High ceilings, brass light fixtures, mauve and cream walls and an elaborate glass display at the entrance certainly provide an elegant atmosphere. But Jordan's is not a nightclub, says owner Jordan Spasovski. Since it opened in late September, the restaurant has offered casual dining at reasonable prices, he said. "Good food and good service," said Manager Eva Spasovski, summing up the restaurant. Customers at the Romulus restaurant range from area business people and families to truck drivers and employees from the nearby airport. Describing the menu, Spasovski listed appetizers including deep-fried mushrooms and nachos, salads, light sandwiches, hot sandwiches, omelettes and burgers. Listed under the final category is the Jordan Spice Burger, a quarter pounder a bit on the hot side. Dinner entrees include veal cutlet, roast beef, T-bone steaks, New York strip steak and seafood including orange roughy. Jordan's is most known for barbecued selections, Spasovski said - ribs, chicken and combination platters.

"It's good. My family's had the recipe," he said, describing his special barbecue sauce. Spasovski warned the servings are quite large, few customers are able to eat a whole meal at the restaurant. New at the restaurant is a weekend breakfast menu with traditional selections including omelettes, cereal and pancakes. Egg Beaters are available for those watching their cholesterol levels. Additional Jordan's highlights - a fully stocked bar, daily lunch and dinner specials, carry-out service and party facilities. Jordan's is located at Merri-man Road at Van Born, the Wayne/Romulus border. Restaurant hours are 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.
